Changes/updates to your CDL

The FMCSA final rules require license holders to (in-person) prove citizenship or legal presence in the form of a birth certificate, passport, naturalization documents or current immigration documents. Beginning December 21, 2015, all new CDL applicants and current holders required to renew or make any changes or upgrades to their CDL will need to do so in person unless the documents have already been presented to PennDOT. The requirement to prove citizenship or legal presence for permanent residents and citizens will only need to be done once as a notation will be made on your record confirming the verification was made and the date it was made.

Additionally, residency documents will be required initially, at renewal and anytime an address change occurs. Proof of residency can be accomplished by providing one of the following: Tax Records, Lease Agreements, Mortgage Documents, W-2 Form, Current Weapons Permit, Current Utility Bills (water, gas, electric, cable, etc), your renewal notice or current license.

Removing restrictions on a current CDL

If a driver applicant wants to remove any of the commercial restrictions on their current license, the applicant may not have to retake the complete skills tests. The State may administer a modified test which will include a knowledge test and skills test depending on the restriction to be removed.

Commercial Learners Permit valid for 180 days from 365 days

New FMCSA rules require that any Commercial Learners Permit issued on or after December 21, 2015, to be valid for no more than 180 days. Additionally, if a permit expires or was renewed once and needs to be renewed again, all knowledge tests must be retaken.

Skills testing of Out-of-State students

A DMV or third party tester may administer its skills test to a person who has taken training in another state and is licensed in another United States jurisdiction (i.e., his/her state of domicile). Such test results must be transmitted electronically directly from the out-of-state tester to the licensing state in an efficient and secure manner. PennDOT will be able to accept out-of-state test results on December 21, 2015.

Additionally, the state of domicile of a CDL applicant must accept the results of a skills test administered to the applicant by any other DMV or third party tester.
